For the purpose of informing interested faculty, please be aware of the following opportunity:

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation: Evaluating Innovations in Nursing Education (Round 2)

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF) seeks applicants for the Evaluating Innovations in Nursing Education (EIN) program, which supports evaluations of interventions that expand teaching capacity or promote faculty recruitment and retention in nursing schools. The program aims to increase the number of nursing school graduates by evaluating strategies that address the nurse faculty shortage. An important activity of the program will be disseminating successful strategies so they can be replicated in other nursing education settings.

For more information about this opportunity (RWJF: EIN) please see the full solicitation (attached).

Interested applicants are invited to participate in web conferences on October 5th, 2009, and October 26th, 2009. Registration is required. Information can be found on the program’s Web site.

A brief, preliminary proposal is required. The brief proposal is due November 24th, 2009. Applicants will be notified if they are selected to submit a full proposal. As this brief proposal requires a preliminary budget, a yellow sheet must be submitted (along with brief proposal) to the Sponsored Programs Office.

It is anticipated that $4.2M will be available to fund up to 10 awards. Complete award information is found in the full solicitation.

A yellow sheet is required for the submission of full proposals (if invited by RWJF).
